

Squatter's RIGHTS!??

PLEASE CO-SPONSOR H.R. 5478 – THE INVENTOR RIGHTS ACT

Imagine, you work hard for years to invest in a home, though once you move in and start to enjoy it, squatters arrive, who you can't legally kick out. Yes, you can charge them rent BUT if you can't kick them out they have no incentive to pay up! They just keep living in your house for free. That's what's happened to our patent system.

Inventors have lost their "Constitutionally appointed" injunctive rights. The ability to kick people out, in the SCOTUS Ebay case years ago, causing all the problems we have today. So companies are stealing patents and you can't stop them from using them. They have no incentive to pay, instead large corporations are choosing to spend years in court in a process called efficient infringement, paying legal fees to harm new innovation (who then also has extensive legal fees bankrupting them) instead of paying fair licensing to grow the new innovation that the large companies are infringing upon. Like what Big tech had the benefit of years ago, before they lobbied to take patent rights away from others.

Amazon never would have existed without Jeff Bezos patent, "the one click purchase" that he licensed to Apple for the app store to build Amazon. Nor Microsoft, they grew based off of their patent licensing revenue.

While American innovation is faltering to grow here, China has out legislated America! (learning from our mistakes! Mandatory licensing and punitive damages on intentional infringement to quickly grow innovation) and with strong patent legislation growing their economy exponentially. They now have a billion dollar start up every 3 days in crucial fields like AI, 5G, and new tech... while in America we have none.

Instead, we only have large USA corporations stealing innovation from the small companies, then bankrupting them in PTAB trials by judges appointed by the head of Google at a rate of around 86%. So, at this rate that's saying over 80% of all issued American patents being infringed upon are bad??? I think not.

Would you please co-sponsor H.R. 5478 – THE INVENTOR RIGHTS ACT - Restoring patent protection for inventors that mitigates a generation of laws, regulations, and court decisions discouraging innovation by failing to secure to inventors the exclusive rights to their discoveries.

Please join us in our fight to save American Innovation.
